

Good Morning Fans. I know, I know... I am getting very lazy with these newsletters but sometimes I just cannot be bothered. Alas, I have a large pool of stupidity, ineptness, and bitchiness to pick from this week so it should be a good one.

I am going to start with this new flu that is going around, Swine Flu. Gone are the days of the common human flu, or as I like to call it 'I have a cough I am not going to work' syndrome. It seems to me that the animals of this planet are now starting to revolt against humanity. First we had Mad Cow Disease, and I am not talking about the type that has plagued Camilla Parker Bowels. Then there was Bird Flu in which millions had to survive on beef or veal parmigiana. Then we had the massive Equine Flu which set back the racing industry about 1000 years and plagued many people, like my dad's first wife. Now we have this thing called Swine Flu. Since when are pigs deadly? Well I do suppose the fat people eating countless servings of bacon can die from cholesterol but come on. What is next? Sheep Flu? Fish Flu? I think that now it is a good time to become Jewish, you don't eat pork anyway so you really have nothing to worry about. I think it is high time we go back to the days of letting our kids eat what is in the sandbox, and having chicken pox parties. Those were the good old days.

The other week I was disgusted to learn that a father in Darwin was fined, jailed and lost custody of his four year old daughter after he gave her four relatively light taps on her ass for stealing. Now, why is it that the do-gooder family groups of this country seem to have so much influence on today's government? What is wrong with giving a child a smack (and I am not talking about beating them senseless) when they do something wrong? They must learn the difference between good and bad and sitting them down and telling them isn't going to do it. Ok, so I was smacked more than a few times when I was younger but I don't think that it has had a bad influence on my life. Some of you may think it is what turned me gay, but that is due to the constant addiction of people like Freddy Mercury (God rest his soul) and Kenny Everett (God rest his soul) that my father has. Anyway, that is another story. I do not think there is anything wrong with smacking a child. Unfortunately, life is hard and if children become so protected and do not understand how life works, then there will be some serious problems for generations coming up. I honestly wonder that if two societies were constructed, one that allowed smacking and the other that didn't, which one would be the better society? This poor young girl has been taken away from her loving father and placed in a different state altogether, and I do intentionally use the word loving. This was done out of love and not out of some deranged mental problem. Get a grip people; stop allowing these family groups to have all the say. Furthermore, again on these family groups...lesbian kisses in Home and Away, Kellie from Hi-5 doing a shoot for Ralph? Who fucking gives a shit? If we want to be a society that accepts everyone for who they are, then I suggest that these people stop getting so uptight when two chicks or two guys have a kiss on TV. What is wrong with that? I am all for more gayness of television, in fact I think it should be law that there is more homosexuals on TV.

Channel 10 want to axe the Simpsons and have an extra half hour of news of a night time. Well fuck me dead. That means I get to watch an extra half hour of the moustache wanker George Donikian and his dumb-ass blonde sidekick 'bec'. The only thing that Channel 10 is good for is So You Think You Can Dance, which brings me onto my next point. I love SYTYCD; it is a reality show that actually showcases talent (Australian Idol is for wankers). I enjoy watching the contestants work their asses off week in week out to show everyone how wonderful dance is. However, I have one major issue with this show, and I do believe I have said it before but I really want to say it again. I am sick and tired of hearing all those tweeny girls screaming every time one of the guys has his shirt off, or throws a girl in the air and does a triple somersault in the tuck position, and then boo's the judges when they are criticizing the routine. THESE JUDGES ARE PROFESSIONALS YOU DUMB ASS BITCHES! Do you think Bonnie Lythgow spent majority of her life in ballroom dancing not to know anything about it? Do you think Jason Coleman has no idea about jazz dancing even though he has appeared in shows all around Australia? Come on people, these people know what they are talking about and if you actually voted on who is the best dancer, not who has the best abs, then perhaps the top 10 will look different. It really does anger me when I hear boos towards the judges because they didn't like something or they found faults in the dancing that no one else picked up because NO ONE ELSE KNOWS WHAT TO LOOK FOR! Talia was a deserving winner. Damien should have been in the final 10 and possibly even Danny. I would like to see a lot LESS hip hop dancers because break dancing etc is not dancing, its glamorous tricks to get crowd appreciation. I would also like to see more gay boys in the final 20 because there was only one this year and that is not enough!

Now, as some of you may know, I spectacularly injured my ankle a couple of weeks ago and this has forced me to postpone my fundraiser show because the ankle was quite tender. The new dates are as follows: Friday June 26th and Saturday June 27th. The time is still 8:00pm and the venue is still the same, Cowandilla Social Club, 2a Ellen St, Richmond. Please contact me ASAP if you want tickets and please don't be afraid to bring friends. This show is going to be fantastic and one to remember.

Take care, don't eat pork!

Love B xx
